

↑ | Front

Cinema Paradiso

St. Pölten

The cinema offers an entry to the world of films, dreams, adventures, and memories. Unlike television, the cinema is a place of common adventure. Cinema Paradiso is a place with a unique identity and atmosphere that plays a vital role in the city center with functions that go far beyond merely showing films as an alternative to television. It is a new kind of cinema offering a mixture of catering, film show, repertory cinema and an open center for arts and culture. The versatile division of spaces creates meeting points for communication and entertainment. The transitions between rooms are seamless and open, supported by color and light.

PROJECT FACTS

Address: Rathausplatz 15–S7, 3100 St. Pölten, Austria. Planning partners: Erich Bernard, Johann Moser, Erich Klinger, Dolores Kainz, Andreas Tsukalas. Client: Verein Cinema Paradiso. Completion: 2002. Number of seats: 180. Largest screen diameter: 8,7 m. Sound equipment: digital SR. Kind of projection: 35 mm, digital. Additional functions: open cultural center, bar. Main materials: glass. Setting: inner city.

↑ | Beislkino
↙ | Section and floor plan

↓ | Foyer

